

MRS. GIBSON ADDS TO HER STORY

Now Says She Went Back to Scene of Double Murder

Eye Witness in Shooting Is Under Guard—Mott Is Pleased With Progress Made in Case.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
NEW BRUNSWICK, Oct. 28.—Four hours after she had witnessed the shooting of the Rev. Wheeler Hall and Mrs. E. R. Mills on the night of September 14, Mrs. Jane Gibson returned to the scene to recover her lost moccasins and saw the woman, she says, who was present when the two were slain, bending low over the body of the victim weeping bitterly.

Confident that he has solved the murder which he says is "complex but not mysterious," Mr. Mott went ahead today assembling evidence. He ventured to reporters the statement that he arrests will be made until the grand jury has been given the case. Mrs. Gibson's home was under guard to prevent newspaper men talking to her.

The statement that Mrs. Mills ran away after Dr. Hall had been shot and hid in the bushes where two men and woman found her with the aid of flashlights and dragged her forty yards over the ground, is borne out by the autopsy. The slain choir singer's body showed rough treatment. Mrs. Mills fought desperately but the murderer overpowered her and dragged her back and shot her, according to Mrs. Gibson.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—"The Hall-Mills case is complex, but it is not a mystery."

This was the statement today of Special Deputy Attorney General William A. Mott, who has taken over for the state the investigation of the double murder of Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, choir singer, on the Phillips farm, six weeks ago.

With an assertion by Mr. Mott that he found a witness to corroborate at least part of the story told by Mrs. Jane Gibson, farmer, who claims to have witnessed the double shooting, the grand jury today continued its investigation of the case.

Lloyd George Wins A Hearty Reception

Ex-Premier Invades Bailiwick of Bonar Law and Scores New Premier's Policy.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
GLASGOW, Oct. 28.—Former Prime Minister Lloyd George pursuing his vicious campaign came to the Glasgow constituency which Premier Bonar Law represents in parliament today. Mr. George, who was warmly welcomed by the people, made a speech in which he scored the policy of the Conservative government in the face of such a manifesto as the labor party had issued, deplored the splitting of the country at a time when radical changes were being called for by a large majority of the people and said there was no use in talking of tranquility and stability and the substitution of less energetic leadership when the country is not yet "out of the rough."

He declared in reference to the breaking up of the coalition that the country is in such a state that it cannot afford to indulge in party backbiting and quarrels until the nation is on firm rock again.

DIE-HARDS ARE SHOWING CONCERN

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
LONDON, Oct. 28.—Arrangements by the conservative and reactionist die-hards not to oppose another candidate in certain constituencies are given prominence in today's anti-radical papers. A third party of die-hards is being formed for the purpose of opposing the government in the House of Commons. The die-hards are spreading with an obvious drift towards a platform of opposition to the government. It is the contention of the die-hards that the country is being led back to the old party line by the difference being that it is a new line.

On the Tory side, the extreme die-hards are clearly active over this proposed tendency.

Their attitude summed up yesterday by a die-hard candidate who said in a Yorkshire constituency that he would rather vote for the devil than for a coalition. The die-hard conservative is being to start growing a state of mind among the extreme die-hards and a statement during the day that the die-hard organization is a die-hard organization.

Pool To Make New Payment Soon, Report

It is currently reported that another payment will be made to tobacco growers affiliated with the Tobacco Marketing Association who have already sold some of their tobacco receiving certificates of participation for it. The date of this payment has not been made clear but it will be just as soon as the clerical force of the association can complete the voluminous records. News from Fredericksburg, headquarters of the Caroline county tobacco growers was that a quarter of a million dollars was paid out to growers of that county today.

Now that the South Carolina season is over, the association is making arrangements to close up several of the South Carolina markets leaving a few of them open for farmers who have not disposed of all of their tobacco. The warehouse forces are being brought north and used in the old belt of North Carolina and Virginia.

Contract breaking is being carefully watched and suits are said to be pending against several Virginia growers alleged to have broken their contracts in this connection. An Annapolis man is quoted as having said recently, "We never let a man get away with it (contract breaking) but when a small man breaks we ask who is the devil behind him? We always wait for some man who has money to hire lawyers." In a further passage Sapiro is quoted as having said in a recent speech: "We are going to make it so unhealthy to break our contract that a man will think thirty-two times before he listens to another warehouseman."

Another Labor Case Dismissed Upon Hearing

Hearing of an alleged labor law violation in a police court this morning revealed an unusual case in which the firm charged worked the young woman in question but four hours a day, yet was charged with a violation. But the fact that the girl had also worked at night at another concern the same day made it a violation of the state labor law. The concern was the John E. Hughes Tobacco company, the warrant being against G. M. Hamlett, manager. The charge was dismissed on plea by counsel for the firm which has represented it did not know that the woman had worked prior to their engagement of her services.

The attention of the labor department was called several days ago to the fact that the John E. Hughes Tobacco company was employing a young woman four hours at night after she had worked ten hours the same day at the Imperial Tobacco company. L. R. Far assistant labor commissioner brought charges then by swearing out a warrant against the Hughes concern. The labor department's construction of the law is that after a woman has worked ten hours in a day of twenty-four hours, the person or corporation employing her after that period is violating the law.

The case was dismissed after it was shown that the Hughes concern did not know that she was working at another place but had it been proven that they were aware of her employment elsewhere a conviction would have resulted. Upon the dismissal, other similar warrants were withdrawn, it was said.

Thefts Result In Five Arrests

After a close investigation of several days, Police Detective J. N. Campbell and J. C. Lewis, have placed under arrest five persons, all colored, in connection with recent thefts of clothing, hats and cameras, tailoring concern on Market street. James White is in jail charged with the stealing and U. S. Cunningham, P. D. Ash his wife, Nora Ash, and Lulu Young are under arrest charged with receiving stolen goods and concealing stolen goods. The cases will be heard in the Mayor's court next Wednesday. Cunningham and Ash are under bonds of $500 and the two women under bonds of $250.

On last Tuesday the tailoring concern was raided by the police. Several suit patterns had been stolen. White was employed by the concern as a porter and suspicion pointed to him. Campbell and Lewis, after careful investigation finally worked the case to a point that resulted in the three arrests last night.

When the charge of the thefts and also to Cunningham $40 worth of goods. This was in the presence of Cunningham last night, after he had been located after some little difficulty, and he made no denial then, but this morning he denied that White had sold him any of the goods. He denied the suit patterns were found in the possession of the other three persons. All of them live over Cunningham's establishment on Spring street, where White said he had disposed of all six of the suit patterns, reported missing. Four have been recovered by the police, which White claims to have sold Cunningham for $5. None have been found.

Crisis In Italy Not Yet Passed

New Turn Is Taken by the Fascisti Movement—Populace Urged to Remain Calm.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
ROME, Oct. 28.—The cabinet council has been in session since midnight to get reports from the provinces where the Fascisti movement has taken a subversive direction and to adopt measures to meet the situation. The cabinet decided first to issue a proclamation declaring a state of siege in all provinces beginning at noon today but later this was modified and a proclamation was issued urging the public to maintain order. Reports received by the cabinet council from a number of points in Central Italy show that the Fascisti are extending movements to exert pressure for a Fascisti cabinet. The Fascisti ministry despite its resignation is acting with energy to restore order. Rome and other large cities have not been the scene of disturbance of moment.

(Associated Press Leased Wire.)
PLYMOUTH, Oct. 28.—Now that my late colleagues are down and out, I must come to throw mud at them," said Lady Astor who last night was chosen as the official candidate of the Conservative party for the Sutton division of Plymouth. Her words were spoken in an address of thanks for the honor conferred.

No Further Probe Of Montana Dual Shooting Affair

Oliver Sands Is Unable To Come For Speech Here

Hundreds of farmers, members of the co-operative alliance were disappointed this morning at eleven o'clock when on gathering to hear Oliver J. Sands, of Richmond, make a speech on co-operative marketing and its future policy, they were informed, that he could not be here. During the course of the morning E. L. Walton, local manager of the Co-operative Association received a telegram from Mr. Sands stating that an attack of lumbago prevented him from fulfilling his engagement which he keenly regretted.

Other speakers were secured and Henry Watkins was secured to welcome the farmers to Danville and to introduce Josie J. Hundley of the local bar. James H. Warren who hastened to find impromptu speakers to address the farmers sought Hugh T. Williams to make an address but arguing at his office it was found that he was in the hospital for treatment.

Mr. Warren went to the hospital to see if he could not appear at the table but his condition was such that a speaking engagement at that time was unwise.

Mrs. Sands was to speak not only here but at Chatham at two o'clock this afternoon. He called John W. Carter and asked him to speak for him at the Chatham meeting this afternoon.

Sunday Law Does Not Stop Farmers Bringing Tobacco

Stuart's Mayor Active Officer Nabs Bootlegger

Mayor F. P. Burton of Stuart, who has been active for the past several months in arresting suspected bootleggers has another capture to his credit. He was visiting the home of P. L. Penn in Patrick county a few days ago when he received word that an automobile loaded with liquor would pass the house. He deputized Jeff Campbell who was also visiting at the home and the two men laid in wait for the car at night. The driver called on to stop and seeing that it was impossible to get by, put on his brakes and jumped from the machine, plunging into some woods. He was not identified. The car was found to contain 98 gallons of liquor, both the machine and the contraband being seized and taken back to Stuart. Mayor Burton has personally led a number of raiding parties of recent months and when it comes to trying the men, he has first hand knowledge of the evidence facilitating the disposal of the cases.

Co-Ops Sue Five Virginians For Contract Breach

(Special from Tobacco Growers' News Bureau.)

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 27.—The Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association has filed suits against five alleged contract-breakers in Virginia, according to Major W. T. Joyner, assistant counsel for the association, who stated today that injunction suits against growers of Halifax, Mecklenburg and Lunenburg Counties are returnable before Judge Harkdale on December 8, when the defendants will be required to show cause why a permanent injunction restraining them from further deliveries of tobacco outside of the association should not be granted.

Following the recent legal victory of the tobacco co-operative in North Carolina, one of the two suits against South Carolina growers has been settled out of court, following the payment of the five cents a pound liquidated damages for all tobacco delivered outside of the association, in addition to attorneys' fees and written agreement to perform the terms of the contract. Similar settlements by one of the six tobacco growers scheduled to appear October 30 before Judge C. C. Lyon in the Wake County Court at Raleigh has reduced the defendants in next week's case to five.

With suits filed against nineteen alleged contract-breakers in three states, the Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association is calling up its 900 local co-operative units and warehouse men through out the tobacco belt of the Carolinas and Virginia to aid with information which will protect the contract of its loyal members.

Murder Case Is Complex But Not a Mystery

colorful witness caused a flurry of excitement by the appearance in the court of 21, who in company with state troopers, spent an hour near the scene of the murder. Whence this girl came and whether she departed remained a mystery. The troopers admitted that they had taken her to the rustic lane leading to the Phillips farm, at the direction of Mr. Mott, but declined to state the purpose of the journey.

They wandered up and down the lane which played so big a part in the shooting, never getting out of sight of the crab-apple tree under which the bodies were found. Later the troopers brought the unidentified girl back to the scene and she disappeared.

Mr. Mott received newspaper men this afternoon and answered a series of questions.

In connection with a report that state troopers had been ordered to search for an antique motor car which Mrs. Gibson, riding on a muleback in search of corn thieves, said she had seen in the lane the night of the shooting, Mr. Mott was asked if he had the number of the car.

"I have a combination of figures, but I don't know whether it is right," he replied.

Asked if he intended to make an attempt to find the car before the grand jury, Mr. Mott replied:

"If my judgment prevails, the case will go before the grand jury."

"When?" the newspaper men asked him.

"I won't say," he replied, "and I hope that when it does, you won't know it."

Mr. Mott questioned Mrs. Gibson for a long time today.

Produced into the case of this sturdy farmer woman, who retired as a bareback rider to raise pigs has caused a crowd of curiosity-seekers to descend on her humble farm, eager to get a glimpse of her. To protect her from the curious, a state trooper was sent to her place, blocking efforts of newspaper men to interview her.

New Brunswick is curiously ignorant of the family history of the new witness, known to them chiefly as the "pig woman."

She is believed to have resumed her maiden name after her husband's death and claims to be a native of the Carolinas, and to relate to the Gibson family in the distilling business. It is understood that her father was an officer in the Confederate army.

Detective George Totten, of Somerset County, said tonight that Mrs. Gibson's witness to the prosecution she admitted having returned to the place of the shooting after galloping home on her mule, to search for a moccasin she had lost in the frightful chase, and that she saw the bodies bending over the bodies and weeping to have said, was the one she had seen earlier with the man who killed the rector, and his choir singer.

Efforts to obtain verification from Mrs. Gibson's witness to the prosecution this tragic scene were unsuccessful tonight, as Mr. Mott had placed a guard at the farm and, on his instructions, she refused to answer questions.

NEVER TO LATE TO BEGIN

By ALICE ROCHE

ROME, Oct. 27.—Although he never got started writing a play until he was 50, an old university professor here is making up for lost time. He has written 22 plays in the past five years and has many more on the way.

Not only has Luigi Pirandello made a record in quantity output, but he has established the dramatic school of the "Pirandello Conscience" which is affecting the theater of England, France, Germany, Austria and most important of America.

One voluntarily associates a founder of a new school, an unquenchable modernist with youth. But Professor Pirandello is an old man. For this very reason his comical-like life in the theatrical world is all the more remarkable.

Lives With Pen in Hand.

"To accomplish as much as I do in the way of turning out books and plays I practically live with a pen in my hand. But it is my life—the thing I enjoy," he said when seen at his villa on the outside of Rome. "I began to write plays five years ago in the Sicilian dialect for a friend, never dreaming that it would take me five years to get back to a book upon which I was working. Now I'm finishing that book."

"This book may in a way answer your question as to what the 'Pirandello Conscience' means. It is called 'One Hundred Thousand Things'."

"It means that we are after all many personalities in one and at the same time no definite ego."

While Pirandello's plays are "cerebral" there is nothing to terrify one over their being too high-brow for enjoyment. He can put over a laugh or a thrill, a tear of a moment of horror out of purely psychological situations.

"I've written 385 novels and romances," he said, his eyes roving desirously to his work table. "My school has been wrongfully called the grotesque but while the grotesque movement did grow out of my novel

LUIGI PIRANDELLO

"The Late Mattia Pascal," my theater cannot be described that way."

Pirandello's theater, his dramatic action, is based upon the contrast between truth and fiction—reality, unreality. What is truth? Is the continuing philosophic demand in his plays.

He never permits any manager to change his plays. A London producer who wished to change the ending of "It's So, If You Think It Is" was so summarily refused that the play was not produced. A New York manager who wished to acquire one of his new plays and have it adapted by a well-known American author was equally turned down.

BIG GAME FINDS HAVEN IN ALASKA

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Oct. 27.—Mount McKinley National Park, which lies in central Alaska, is rapidly gaining world fame as a big game preserve probably the largest government reservation in the world in which wild animals can roam at large free from any fear of hunters.

H. G. Kaiser, official photographer for the Alaska railroad, which skirts the park, has returned to Anchorage from a month's trip into the McKinley country, where he hob-nobbed with the wild life all the way from caribou and mountain sheep.

The sheep are so tame that it is possible to approach with him a short distance of them. One rare picture obtained by Kaiser showed a herd of mountain sheep, with a caribou and a mother brown bear.

With 112,000 Men and Women Taking Part in Battle Episodes, It Ranks Foremost Among Pictures to Date

More persons are said to appear in "The Loves of Pharaoh" than in any other picture ever made. The spectator sees 112,000 persons in this most tremendous production, directed by Ernest Lubitsch, creator of "Passion" and "Deception." When Mr. Lubitsch announced at a luncheon in New York that 112,000 persons appeared in "The Loves of Pharaoh," some of those who heard him were frankly skeptical. That was far more than were used in "Passion," "Deception" and "The Birth of a Nation" combined.

Mr. Lubitsch turned for corroboration to his manager, Paul Davidson, who showed a receipt from a theatrical agency for its commissions for furnishing 112,065 extras during the filming of the Paramount picture "The Loves of Pharaoh," which will be the feature at the Broadway theatre next Monday and Tuesday.

"We'll need 18,000 extras tomorrow," Mr. Lubitsch used to telephone, and the agency delivered them. P. G. Lubitsch City, where the sands of the desert stretched as far as the eye could see between these reconstructed pyramids and sphinx and temples.

The extras were paid very handsomely at sundown as they filed back to the steamship that transported them from ancient Egypt to modern Europe. The paymaster's record show that he handed out wages to 112,065 persons during the ten months of the filming. Some of these extras, of course, appear more than once in the assembled scene, as Egyptian fighting men, again as part of the house of Pharaoh.

No one who has seen the results of the masterful Lubitsch direction in "The Loves of Pharaoh" doubts that there are really 112,000 persons in action, or more than live in the largest city of Arkansas, Conway, Arkansas, Florida, Idaho, Kansas, West Virginia, or Wyoming.

NEXT BIG SHOW

"Lasses" White's All Star Minstrels at The Majestic Next Thursday

When the "Lasses" White's All Star Minstrels, now on its third successful tour, comes to the Majestic on Thursday, Nov. 2nd there will be on that day a grand street parade to be given at lunch noon. Lasses' himself will lead this parade and will also positively appear at every performance since unlike other entertainers of this kind of entertainment he is willing to share in all the work that he asks his fellow players to do.

One of the big features of this season's entirely new program is a pretentious spectacular production entitled "The Blackville National Guard in Cuba" written by Mr. White and in which he will play the principal comic role, that of "Useless Green" now recruit, which suggests the nature of the character and also that it is a line with that style in which this comedian excels. The afterpiece first shown at a street in Blackville where the Guard is being recruited and where he later to get the desired number "Lasses" and "Slim" Vermont are accepted as volunteers. From Blackville the action is transferred to Cuba in the shadow of Morro Castle and later to Havana. The antics of "Lasses" and "Slim" are a never ending cause of laughter.

Prices 50c to $2.00. Seat Sale opens Monday 10 a. m.

"VALLEY OF SILENT MEN" A GOOD PICTURE

You've heard the old saying that because the mountain would not come to Mahomet, Mahomet went to the mountain. The patrons of the Broadway theatre who could not go to the Rocky Mountains in Canada, had been brought to them last night when "The Valley of Silent Men," a Cosmopolitan creation for Paramount Pictures, Alma Rubens, was shown with a big success.

The picture has realism, thrills and punch from the opening to the closing scene. The work of Miss Rubens in the leading role of a Canadian Girl who is a central figure of a tremendous dramatic story, was admirable. How Cody was artistic as leading man and the work of Joe King, George Nash, Mario Majeroni and J. W. Johnston was highly effective. Directed by Frank Borzage who created "Harold Lloyd," "The Good Provider" and other screen successes, "The Valley of Silent Men" doubtless will be called as one of the outstanding screen dramas of the current season.

"Lasses" White, The Southern Sunflower as "Useless Green" the raw recruit in the Blackville National Guards at Majestic Theatre, Thursday Night, November 2nd.

DODGE BROTHERS BUSINESS COUPE

The approach of winter emphasizes the all-year usefulness of the car.

Wind and sleet beat in vain against the weather-stripped doors and windows. A floor radiator keeps the interior as warm as a room. The windows are readily adjusted for ventilation.

Underlying these seasonal comforts, is the satisfaction owners feel in the car's exceptional sturdiness.

The body proper is a hand-welded steel unit. It is now generally known that this novel construction has made possible Dodge Brothers enamel finish (instead of paint) which is baked at high temperature on the surface of the steel.

The trimness and grace of the body lines are enhanced by a non-rumble fabric top and rear quarters fashioned in the present attractive mode.

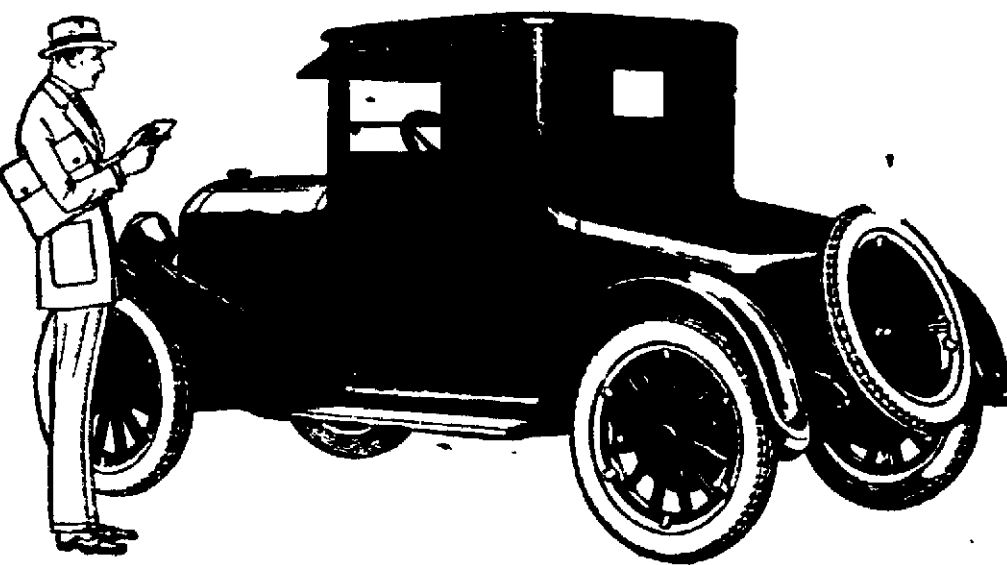

Genuine Spanish blue leather upholstery, wide snug-fitting doors and roomy luggage quarters heighten the impression you instantly get of the car's distinctive fitness for service, either business or social.

Sparing No Efforts In Shield Search

Americans in A. R. A. Scout Suicide Theory—Russian Girl Says Shield Told Her Good-Bye.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—The office of Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, and also head of the American relief administration, insists that every available agency is seeking to penetrate the mystery of the disappearance of Philip Shield, young Richmond man, attached to the relief work in Russia. Christian A. Herten, assistant to Secretary Hoover, is actively in charge of the inquiry. Free use of the cable is being made.

Colonel William N. Haskell, head of the work in Russia, with headquarters at Moscow, himself is personally directing the search at Simbirsk according to a cable to Secretary Hoover, having gone from Moscow Wednesday.

This cable, signed "Haskell," made public today, reads as follows: "Haskell already ordered to Moscow, the cable to Simbirsk. The following telegram just received from Dalton: Information received as result of reward posters 2 o'clock 23d indicate boy in river village about Simbirsk found hat on river bank shirt vest above. Simbirsk. Somerville and detectives just returned, failed to locate boy, but identified hat worn by Shield when he was last seen. Further details tomorrow. I will leave for Simbirsk Wednesday."

Dalton referred to in the cable is Joseph Dalton, district supervisor, and Summerville is James Summerville, Shield's roommate. Dalton is a native of Winston-Salem, N. C., and Summerville is from Vaiden, Miss.

Representative Montague took up with Secretary Hoover the case of young Shield several days ago, and very urgently requested that nothing be left undone to ascertain his fate.

A criticism that reached Representative Montague's office was that the reward offered, $500, was entirely inadequate. On this point, the office of Secretary Hoover said that it was an unheard of reward in Russia, and that it would purchase five billion rubles, which if reduced to dollars on a pre-war basis would amount to $2,500,000.

There is no suggestion of suicide in the messages received from Moscow. The finding of Shield's hat on the bank of a river is narrated, but no inference is drawn. It is significant also that Colonel Haskell is persistent in following news from Simbirsk, that the boy's hat had been found, announced that he was going to Simbirsk, which he would hardly do if he accepted a theory involving suicide.

In this connection it is pertinent to recall that the New York Times cable from Moscow, recounting the circumstances of Shield's disappearance, went somewhat fully into the theory of suicide, which he said had already been launched, presumably by persons interested in having further inquiry cease.

The theory had some semblance of support in a letter from Dr. Godfrey, resident physician at Simbirsk, to Mr. Porter Bewkes in Moscow, dated Thursday night, stating that a Russian girl who was acquainted with Shield had given evidence to the effect that he had said to her on the day before his disappearance: "I want to say goodbye to you. You won't see me again in Simbirsk. Everyone hates me now and I am sick of the whole business."

Combating this suggestion of suicide, the correspondent pointed out that Shield was on good terms with all the Americans in the place and had the confidence of his superiors.

Summerville, his roommate, declared that Shield was never out at night during the time they roomed together. He scouted any idea of a love affair.

It is admitted that all the Americans in the work became lonely and depressed at frequent intervals, so that rash remarks are freely made. In the case of Shield it is denied that he had any cause for him to take his life, and this seems to be the present attitude of officials in Moscow and Simbirsk.

The theory of murder for revenge on Shield for reporting sugar thieves still is believed more tenable.

FRIEND TRAVELS FAR TO HELP FIND SHIELD
CHARLOTTEVILLE, Va., Oct. 27.—Thomas C. Barringer, son of Dr. Paul Barringer, of Charlottesville, who is with the American relief forces in Ekaterinburg, Russia, has been ordered 1,200 miles across the country to the banks of the Volga river in a search for his friend, Philip R. Shield, of Richmond, Va., whose disappearance has caused a personal investigation to be started.

Barringer and Shield were classmates at the university, where they both entered in 1915 and remained until they were started in 1917. They were close friends and members of the Zeta Psi Fraternity. Many friends of the two young men at the university and in Charlottesville are expressing much concern over their situation in the Soviet republic.

One Bath Per Annum Enough Says Dr. Bernstein

TRENTON, Oct. 27.—"The American people bathe entirely too much," European dermatologists have pointed out that persons should bathe only once a year, whether they needed it or not. This was the startling statement made by Dr. Ralph Bernstein, professor of skin diseases at Hahnemann Medical College, Philadelphia, in an address today before the employees of a cigar company here on the "Care and Hygiene of the Skin."

Dr. Bernstein went even further when he declared that the majority of people did not know how to bathe, and that hot baths were deleterious to health and that the cold bath had the real stimulating and life-prolonging effect.

In making his points clear to the astonished audience, Dr. Bernstein, who is taking an active part in the convention of the Eastern Homoeopathic Medical Association, now in session, pointed the finger at the skin as a "organ and compared it with the way of the internal organs and said that the disadvantages that the skin was from external irritants and was existing germs. He also explained the beneficial effects of the sun through its ultra violet rays, which had curative power, and often healed various skin diseases and tuberculosis. These sun treatments he contended, should be given to the nude body in sun parlors or at the beach, because he explained that "ground cities, about two miles up in the air, there was a zone of sunbeams and rays which prevents the sun's violet or ultra violet rays from reaching the earth."

STEADY DECLINE IN WORLD SHIP CONSTRUCTION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—A continued steady decline in world ship construction during the quarter ending last September 30, is shown by an analysis of returns made public today by the Transportation division of the department of commerce. The total tonnage under construction in the world was 2,792,555 as compared with 2,235,430 on last June 30, and 3,673,622 on last March 31.

Of total decrease of 500,000 tons from the preceding quarter 300,000 tons was accounted for by the decline in British ship yards. American plants had the same tonnage on hand on September 30 as at the end of the preceding quarter 150,623, an increase of nine per cent. over the total at the end of the first quarter.

Tonnage under construction in American yards in 1922 was thirty five per cent. of the 1921 figure, but 14 per cent. higher than the pre-war average over a period of five years. World construction was 10 per cent. of the 1921 total, but 15 per cent. higher than the pre-war average.

British construction during the past quarter was 1,617,945 tons, while that in all other countries, exclusive of the United States was 655,610 tons.

New construction started during the period for all countries was 187,527 tons while in the same period 476,079 tons were launched.

Missing Principal Alleged to Have Committed Crime

J. William Taylor of Charlottesville Charged With Heinous Offense Against Little Girl.

CHARLOTTEVILLE, Oct. 28.—Gradually more facts in connection with the supposed mysterious disappearance of J. William Taylor, principal of the Alberene high school, have been brought to light, and it now appears that the case shows a much more serious aspect than was given it at first. The impression was made that Taylor had in some way, become the victim of a plot by unknown enemies, and that, brooding on certain supposed threats contained in letters that he had received, he had wandered away. More authentic information goes to show that there was no plot at all formed against him, but that he himself was guilty of a heinous and sordid crime against the person of a young female pupil in the school, only fifteen years of age.

It is reliably reported that Taylor left the Alberene section Saturday following the receipt of a fourth letter of warning, notifying him that he had better leave the section by that day, and this accounts for the scraps of information bearing on his movements to that end.

There is no doubt that Taylor knew what the warning meant and very wisely acted on the hints just in time. It is stated that on Friday his wife told him she had seen two of the girls who had been molested and he then disclosed the fact that he had received a third on that day. He failed to disclose to her his knowledge of what it was about, and she loyally stood by him and tried to encourage him by saying that it was only some foolish school prank and would come to nothing. The letters were all in female handwriting.

Taylor made his escape to Baltimore, as has been stated, and the report first given out that he was fleeing from some mental strain has been dissipated by the subsequent revelations. Instead of a party being out on a hunt for him on that theory, it is shown that citizens of the neighborhood, indignant at the offense which it had become known that he committed were after him in order to turn him over to justice or, perhaps, mete out a sterner fate. And, instead of sympathy being felt for him, as was reported the first of the week, the greatest amount of indignation prevails throughout the Alberene region against the betrayer of innocence and youth. It is said that a brother of the young girl, who took part in the search, had not been informed of the true state of affairs and had been misled by the one in her innocence was deliberately betrayed by the wife of a man who had the full confidence of her family as well as of the best people in the community. Suspicious circumstances had been noticed by the neighbors, and over a period of months, beginning last winter, but no comparison of notes had been made by them until the startling discovery was made that the girl was in trouble.

Taylor's victim is one of five sisters of a well known family residing near Alberene, and the heartless teacher had free access to the home at all times, the only parent living being the father.

After the true nature of the affair was divulged to Taylor's wife, it is said that she left Alberene on Tuesday, carrying two suit cases, presumably with their clothing, and made a statement that she would not believe the horrible charge unless she heard it from her own lips. In the neighborhood two suppositions prevail as to her destination—first that she went to Baltimore to join her husband in his flight, or, secondly, that they are trying to make their way to Denver, Colo., where it is said that Taylor has relatives living.

Immediately after he was given the true facts, a brother of the young girl secured a warrant for the arrest of Taylor, charging him with the seduction, and this was placed in the hands of the county authorities, to be proceeded with, according to law.

It is learned that the county school authorities promptly took action on the premises, and Supt. A. L. Bennett entered an order to the effect that Taylor's departure had automatically vacated his position as principal. On yesterday Mr. L. B. Johnson, Jr., of Red Hill, was named to fill the vacancy and will enter upon his duties on Monday next.

Mrs. Herbert Ferguson has returned home from Lynchburg after weeks' visit to her daughter who is attending the Woman's College at that place.

Emerson Raiford Dies At Hilltop

The death occurred shortly after noon today at Hilltop Sanatorium of Emerson Raiford, 37, a native of Southampton county and ministerial student and one of the oldest patients in the local institution. He had been there for the past five years or almost since the sanatorium was opened. At that time hopes were expressed that he would overcome the disease from which he suffered but it was not in incipient state and he showed no improvement. Recently he had shown signs of declining and latterly his condition had been quite desperate. Mr. Raiford's death caused a gloom over the colony where more than one fight for life is being made. He had on several occasions conducted the Sunday services at Hilltop in fact his training had made him peculiarly fitted to promote the spiritual welfare of the patients. For that reason he was close in the confidence of nearly all the colony and the bereavement is felt personally by many of the patients. Mr. Raiford had embarked on a ministerial career and was a student at Guilford College when lung trouble developed and he came here to the local institution. He was a young man of fine Christian character and one who realizing that there was small chance for recovery, met the inevitable with that stoicism which comes of real Christian resignation.

Mr. Raiford leaves a sister, Mrs. H. C. Hilltop, Norfolk, an aunt, Mrs. J. H. Horne, of Lenoir, Va., also an uncle, C. S. Hart, of Smithfield. The burial will take place at Centre Hill, Isle of Wight county.

LONG SKIRT IS TABOO IN N. Y.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The ankle length skirt was officially and permanently removed from the wardrobe of 300,000 New York women today by the action of delegates to the New York convention of Women's Clubs in voting unanimously to wear dresses no longer than seven inches from the ground. The resolutions scolding the knell of the long skirts, urged women everywhere to free themselves from apparel once being introduced and having skirts that nearly sweep the ground and carry germ laden dirt into the home.

CONSCIENCE MONEY SHOWS UP TOO LATE

(By International News Service.)
OBERLIN, Ohio, Oct. 27.—Luther Munson, veteran retired local merchant, announced that an Oberlin woman called on him in an effort to locate a man who was in business here in 1872. She wanted to pay him $5 for a woman, now living in the West, who said she bought a $5 trunk and failed to pay for it.

But the "conscience" money arrived too late.

The merchant who sold the trunk suspended business in 1873—nearly fifty years ago. He died some years later. Being a bachelor, he left no heirs to whom the $5 and interest could be paid.

Police Unable To Trace Gun In Double Murder

HAVRE, Mont., Oct. 27.—The deaths of Rev. Leonard Jacobs Christler, widely known clergyman of Montana, and Mrs. Margaret Carleton in the Christler home early today were so plainly a case of murder and suicide by the woman that no inquest properly will be held, the coroner and sheriff offices announced tonight.

The pistol with which the two were killed was still clasped in Mrs. Carleton's hand and her fingers were still on the trigger when he arrived in response to Mrs. Christler's call. Dr. McKenna told the coroner.

The double killing occurred, according to Mrs. Christler, as Dr. Christler was accompanying Mrs. Carleton to the entrance of his home, after a visit made there late last night by Mrs. Carleton.

Mrs. Christler said Dr. Christler closed the door between the room in which the minister, Mrs. Carleton and Mrs. Christler had been sitting, and a small hall. A moment later, she said, two shots were heard and she opened the door, finding the two bodies. Mrs. Carleton's body had fallen across that of the clergyman.

HAVRE, Mont., Oct. 27.—Police authorities have been unable to trace the ownership of the revolver of large calibre which was found near the bodies of the Rev. Leonard Jacobs Christler and Mrs. Margaret Carleton, wife of a former Montana district judge, found in the Christler home this morning.

Mrs. Carleton owned a revolver of much smaller size than the one which caused the deaths, the authorities stated.

Chief of Police Moran said that he notified Mrs. Carleton standing before the restaurant where the Christlers and their party were dining last night, and her peculiar actions so impressed him that he watched her for some time. Examination of her effects at her hotel, the chief said, indicated she had destroyed a large number of letters and telegrams shortly before the shooting.

Mrs. Christler is the daughter of the late David Wadsworth, wealthy manufacturer of Auburn, N. Y. She is the niece of Senator J. W. Wadsworth, Jr., of New York state. The Christlers were married in 1914.

Mrs. Carleton is a native of Helena, Mont. She has a grown daughter by a former marriage.

Mrs. Christler is wealthy and contributed widely to charity during Dr. Christler's work in northern Montana. Mrs. Christler was 36 years old. He graduated at St. Andrews Seminary, Syracuse, N. Y., in 1906, where he was for four years. Chief Moran this afternoon said he saw Mrs. Carleton standing across the street from the Christler home about mid-night. The chief went over and spoke to her, he said.

Mrs. Carleton owned and carried a small calibre revolver at times, according to the police, but where the large calibre revolver was found after the tragedy was revealed is unknown to the officers, they announced.

Government Will Attempt To Show Misuse Of Money

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Oct. 27.—The government began today to offer testimony in support of its charges that funds advanced by the Emergency Fleet Corporation had been used by the Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation for purposes other than the construction of ships in the legal battle in process in Federal Court here over the seizure of nine ships by the corporation and consequent suit by the shipbuilders to recover $5,000,000.

Testimony was offered by J. E. Vaughan, Jr., a fleet corporation auditor, that his audit had disclosed use by the United States Transport Company, a subsidiary of the shipbuilding concern of about $1,000,000 for purposes other than the payment of current ship construction bills. His statements were denied by E. A. Moore, former president of Virginia Shipbuilding, who contended that all money advanced had been used according to the terms of the contracts with the fleet corporation.

Mr. Moore's testimony was supplemented by A. Lee Rallings, a Norfolk, Virginia, public accountant, who testified that the books he had examined showed the government owes the Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation $4,451,128. The shipbuilding attorneys offered documentary evidence in substantiation of their claim and government counsel also laid before the court entries and documents intended to prove its counter claim against the company for which it has filed suit to recover.

Asquith Begins Campaign; Many Speakers Are Out

LONDON, Oct. 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—The election campaign has now reached a stage where there is such a number of political speeches and pronouncements that it is becoming almost a physical impossibility for the newspapers either to report or follow them. Herbert H. Asquith, former premier, and Winston Spencer Churchill, colonial secretary in the Lloyd George cabinet, were the two principal figures engaging attention today. Mr. Asquith, who has been rather slow in getting into action, delivered his first important campaign speech at Portsmouth. His address was devoted chiefly to criticizing the coalition government's shortcomings and the new Bonar Law ministry.

"We have today, the unusual spectacle of two authors of coalition, Lloyd George and Bonar Law, writing epitaphs to carve upon its tomb," declared Mr. Asquith.

The speaker declared that two wings of the coalition, hitherto in the same stable as now separated, but still clinging wistfully over the temporary palling separating them. He alluded that Reginald McKenna, former chancellor of the exchequer and now director of the London City and Midland Bank as the sixth party in the election, and declared he was surprised to find on a Tory platform.

Mr. Bonar's policy was characterized as "when not negative gelatinous." Referring to the laborite manifesto, Mr. Asquith said labor on many questions spoke almost with the voice of the liberals, but their ultimate power was gradually tending toward organized control of enterprise by the state over a greater part, if not the whole, of the industrial field.

His own party, Mr. Asquith declared, "few in number, but strong in the wilderness—divided in debate and overwhelmed in the division lobbies." But he added "they fought on a challenge any other party with their record."

Mr. Churchill is still confined to bed in consequence of an operation for appendicitis, and although recovering he has had to entrust his campaign in Dundee to others. Today he issued a manifesto, considered in political circles the most breezy that has yet appeared, containing biting phrases at the expense of the conservatives who smashed coalition. Notable in the manifesto is Mr. Churchill's declaration that a Centre Party, such as his chief, David Lloyd George, is credited with aspiring to create, is, in his opinion, needless.

Mr. Churchill declares himself a liberal and free trader, but says he is willing to cooperate with progressive unionist elements if this should be necessary to counteract what he terms the predatory and confiscatory policy of the socialist-labor party. A reference was made by Mr. Churchill to the fact that the Bonar Law ministry is the first pure conservative ministry since Salisbury's administration in 1885. It was during this period that the secession of a part of the liberal party occurred over Gladstone's home rule for Ireland bill, and since that time, whenever a conservative ministry has been in power, it always had had an infusion from those seceding liberals, called liberal unionists.

Mr. Lloyd George today delivered addresses while on his way to Glasgow. He was given an ovation by the university students and crowds of townspeople at the station at Glasgow, where tomorrow he will deliver a speech.

Austen Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer in the Lloyd George cabinet, spoke in his constituents in Birmingham tonight. He defended his course in the coalition government and during the crisis. He said there was virtually no difference in the Bonar Law party and that of the coalition and that he was still prepared to cooperate with Bonar Law. One of the most interesting features of the situation continues to be the possibility of the election bringing forward another coalition government, but under a conservative premier.

Confusion in party boundaries is still characteristic of the campaign and these tinders of support and cooperation given and air of unreality to the struggles as it affects the parties lately composing the coalition, the laborites and the Asquithian liberals being the only parties standing on independent platforms.

Lord Robert Cecil has finally announced his intention to remain an independent conservative. In an interview Lord Robert says he is profoundly relieved at the exit of Mr. Lloyd George and regards a change in government as a blessing.

Uncle Sam's Biggest Country Store Delivering $1,000,000 Every Month to Russia via Food Package System

Making Up Food Packages A. R. A. Food Remittance Warehouse, Moscow

The "Ultimate" Consumer

The Packages Being Loaded for Delivery in Moscow

A business whose gross income has averaged nearly $1,000,000 monthly for a period of nine months without any profits to its conductors does not sound like a remunerative proposition, and calculated in dollars and cents it is not. But the hundreds of thousands of Russian men and women who represent the army of consumers of food packages, purchased by their friends and relatives in this country through the American Relief Administration, will testify that the operation brought them inestimable happiness.

The A. R. A. has announced that during the nine months ending October 1 applications for purchase of ten-dollar food packages aggregating more than $8,000,000 have been received at New York headquarters, 42 Broadway.

When remittances reach Moscow, whence they are sent by courier from London, they are forwarded by the A. R. A. courier service in Russia directly to the district in which the designated beneficiary is located. The food packages are made up in the big Food Remittance warehouse at Moscow, two scenes of which are shown above, and shipped by rail and motor truck to the districts. Every district is kept well supplied by the Moscow depot, so that delivery of the food package is almost simultaneous with the receipt of the remittance.

The A. R. A. Food Remittance system was inaugurated two years ago during the feeding operations in Eastern and Central Europe, and provided a means whereby adults in the stricken countries could be reached by friends and relatives in this country. The food package has been so standardized that by purchasing the products that make it up in large quantities the A. R. A. has been able to deliver more than ten dollars' worth of food, at market prices, in each package, despite the fact that twenty-five per cent of all Food Remittances is taken out and set aside for child feeding.

The package, delivered in two wooden containers, consists of 40 pounds of flour, 25 of rice, 20 cans of evaporated milk, ten pounds of sugar, ten of lard and three of tea, or 120 pounds in all. In Russia today, were it possible to purchase all of these ingredients, the package would cost in the neighborhood of 100,000,000 roubles.

Following the announcement that it will continue to feed 1,300,000 children and probably a million adults during the approaching winter, the American Relief Administration has further announced that food package deliveries will be continued. Money may be sent, either for specified beneficiaries or for general relief, to the Russian Food Remittance Department, American Relief Administration, 42 Broadway, New York.

New Standards Of Comparison As To Prices

BY J. C. ROYLE
(Copyright 1922, by The Register)
NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—New standards of comparison as to prices and conditions are being set up today in a dozen different industries. Normal as a term of comparison, for some years has been taken to refer to the period before business was affected by the war and its aftermath. At present, however, "now" and "normal" are becoming synonymous. That is, conditions in business, commerce and industry in the United States, have stabilized to such an extent that present conditions represent a state which will be "normal" for some time to come.

This is especially evident in the packing house industry according to telegraphic reports today from the great packing centers. Exports in meat products and livestock declined today that present wholesale meat prices are just about the level which will constitute a new normal. There may be variations up or down from the figures, but it is fairly safe to figure present prices as the future standard.

The last three months have constituted a profitable period for the packers. The demand for meat products of all kinds has widened and has become stronger with its broadening. Operating expenses of the packing plants have been reduced and operating conditions generally have reached a fairly stable basis. It is doubtful, packers assert, whether the profitable operations of the late months of 1922 will compensate for the unprofitable conditions of the early months, especially as regards pork packing.

The export buying market has improved, following a betterment in some of the exchanges and an increase of productive activity in Europe. England is buying meats as well as fats. Continental Europe has been buying fats for two months and lately has come into the market for other provisions.

Reports from widely separated sections today indicate that the wholesale price of meats in this country will remain steady for the next two months with practically no possibility that price levels will drop before that time. This applies to beef, mutton and pork. Retail prices of meats have never dropped in proportion to reductions in the wholesale price and with the strong demand which now exists, it is entirely likely that there will be a strengthening of retail prices. These, however, as always, will be governed largely by the quality of cuts demanded.

The fact that inquiries for foreign account are coming in more rapidly and in far greater volume than at any time since the war, is cited by provision men as the best proof that present wholesale prices represent real values. Beef in cold storage in Atlantic coast points has been reduced fully one-half in some instances as compared with last year.

Stocks of wool are extremely low and the leading woolen goods manufacturers are combing the Texas and New Mexico ranges for clothing grades and paying high prices direct to growers. The fur industry is booming. Nearly a million more skins have been dressed this year than for a similar period of 1921 and the demand for the Christmas trade is flooding furriers with orders.

Lumber production is up to 98 per cent of normal and while both shipments and new business are well below production there is attributed to difficulties of transportation purposes. Candy manufacturers are hard put to it to keep pace with the early demand for the holiday trade and practically all of them are working overtime for the first time in two years.

GEORGIA 26, OGLETHORPE, 6

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 27.—The University of Georgia's eleven defeated Oglethorpe 26 to 6 here this afternoon. Oglethorpe fought stubbornly, frequently throwing Georgia players for losses, but was unsuccessful in stopping the open field running of the Athens' players.

SWEDISH FISHERS WIN AWARDS FOR CATCHES

GOTHENBURG, Sweden, Oct. 27.—(By The Associated Press.)—Sweden is making a determined effort to stimulate the deep sea fishing industry of the West Coast, and at the same time to increase the national consumption of fish throughout the country. The state and local authorities are helping an encouraging fishermen in the purchasing of new boats and fishing tackle, and they are constructing up-to-date fishing ports. The government fisheries board is extending its research work on the habits of the fish, the public demand for fish as a more important part of the daily fare has been inaugurated, and certain newspapers are calling attention to the exploitation of fishermen by the middlemen. The latter are taking large profits, the majority of which should go into the pockets of the fishermen, or be shared by the public in lower prices.

An interesting feature of this drive is the revival by the government of a custom nearly one hundred years old, of granting prizes to the mackerel fishermen of the West Coast for the best mackerel caught, sorted and packed for export.

Swedish fishermen take pride in their profession and they have long been grumbling over the fact that their mackerel has been sold and shipped to America through middlemen in other countries. They have received reports that mackerel of inferior grades has been mixed in with these shipments.

In order to eliminate this cause of complaint, and to assure better quality and direct shipment with the virtual elimination of middlemen's profits, a co-operative association has been formed and backed by the Governor of the Gothenburg Province, Oscar von Sydow, the Swedish Consul-General in New York, Olof H. Lamm, and others. This system of government inspection has been perfected, inspectors being detailed to the several ports where mackerel is packed for the American market. These men will see to it that mackerel of the highest grade only goes to the United States.

An ostrich lives about 30 years and the average annual size of a bird in captivity is from two to four pounds of feathers.

WASHINGTON CLAIMS MOST ANCIENT MULE

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Oct. 27.—Four years of Washington claims the oldest mule living. She brays to the name of "Jessie," and, according to the oldest reckoning possible, she is at least thirty-three years old. "Jessie" was brought to the Walla Walla Valley in 1893 by the Federal Government, where she was used as one of a team of six to haul freight from the city of Walla Walla to Fort Walla Walla. She served within a year of three terms of army enlistment, being "honorably discharged" from the army service when Fort Walla Walla was abandoned as a military post in 1919.

The remainder of her years she has spent at the State Penitentiary here, but not as a "prisoner." She hauls a dumpcart, driven by a negro trustee. It is figured that since the Federal Government never buys a mule under ten years of age, "Jessie" cannot have lived less than thirty-three summers.

Come See the Value of the Essex Coach

It May Save You Hundreds of Dollars

Experienced buyers demand more in a motor car than accessories.

In many moderate priced closed cars, however, such things as dome lights, cigar lighters, clocks, etc., are featured as against the more important quality of performance, reliability and reduced maintenance expense.

Come, make a close examination of the Essex Coach. That will show its real utility and chassis quality.

Then you will appreciate what is most important when service is considered.

And you will know that the chassis that carries a closed body is always the most important part of the car.

You want more than the fittings in the body. They are nice to have, but don't sacrifice car quality to get them. Don't accept a less able chassis, just because the body has an accessory you like when its cost is taken out of the motor, or other essential mechanical parts.

The Essex Coach provides every closed car comfort. It is reliable and convenient. It has all the details that count most for utility. Thousands are in service. And yet it is mounted on an Essex chassis that is better in every way than earlier models that established famous records.

A closed car offers advantages you will like. But don't let the extras overweigh the construction of the body or the character of the chassis.

Come see this Essex Coach. It is more than important if you are considering your first closed car.

ALABAMA COWS
GET "CORNERED"
DRINKING MASH

(By International News Service)
BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 27.—The increasing popularity of the mountain variety of Alabama "moonskins" was effectively demonstrated during the hearing of a case in Judge J. Q. Smith's division of the Circuit Court here. Evidence adduced also brought out the fact that a new field has opened up for the activities of the prohibition forces.

Briefly, "extract of corn," according to testimony offered, is now finding addicts among the bovine species.

Three ordinary milk cows belonging to Henry Culp, of Shades Mountain, left as usual one morning for their customary pasture. With the death of evening two of them returned home in a deplorably intoxicated condition, one of them dying later of acute alcoholism.

Investigators found the third member of the bovine booze party dead, close by an illicit still and a quantity of "mash."

An interesting question in connection with the case—which has not yet been answered—is:
 Did the long-suffering cow yield milk punch instead of the straight lactical fluid for the first few days immediately succeeding her "jag?"

HARDING TELLS TRUMPS
HE IS PRIMARILY GOOD
MIXER AND PEACEMAKER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Along in the Autumn of 1920, when it became apparent that only sudden death could prevent Warren G. Harding from becoming the twenty-ninth President of the United States, he was tendered a dinner by a group of newspaper correspondents at the old Marion Club, then the center of political and social activities in his home town.

In the course of that dinner Mr. Harding was continuously referred to and addressed as "Mr. President." And while he himself never had any serious doubts as to his election, he showed a somewhat embarrassed embarrassment by his new title.

He made a little speech that night that was never reported, but one that will long be remembered by those present. It could hardly be dignified by the term "speech"—it was rather an intimate chat among fellow newspapermen.

AUTO GOING FROM PLANTS
ON, OWN WHEELS OR COAT

(BY PHIL S. HANNA)
DETROIT, October 27.—Approximately half the output of the Detroit automobile plants is now being transported either on its own wheels or by boat in order to avoid tie-ups through railroad transportation.

About 2,000 cars a week are going by boat from Duluth to Chicago, Buffalo and other Lake ports, and from 10,000 to 15,000 are being driven away. The boats, being privately operated, are not classed as common carriers and are making quick trips.

Plans call for operation of the boats until ice prevents and many vessels will operate after all government navigation aids have been removed.

Calls for 10-cent sizes of popular cigars has been so strong that many manufacturers are unable to supply their customers.

POTATOES
SEATTLE, October 27.—Demand for potatoes grown west of the Cascades, where an abnormal dry summer has produced an exceptionally fine quality of tubers, is slack today and growers will bury their crops in cribs rather than sell at a loss. During the war peak prices potatoes in this state reached $120 a ton. Quotations now range from $19 to $12 for similar grades.

FRUIT
NEW ORLEANS, October 27.—Shipments of fruit to this market recently have been far beyond the needs and trading is just recovering today from the demoralization which this has caused. Louisiana oranges are moving in moderate quantities today, but prices are disappointing to growers.

MILK
MINNEAPOLIS, October 27.—Four large Minneapolis milk companies have merged into a single three million dollar milk corporation, which will operate four milk plants, four butter factories and two ice-cream factories under a single management.

CLOTHING
DETROIT, October 27.—Clothing wholesalers reported today that because of large sales there is a decided shortage of coats retailing at from $20 to $30. One large dealer in men's furnishing reported that he has only broken lots of sport sweaters and woolen men's on hand.

NEUR
FORT WORTH, November 27.—On the eve of the first week, owners of pecan groves estimated today that the north section of the crop will be up to average. Adverse weather came from central and west Texas.

GLA
PITTSBURGH, Oct. 27.—The glass industry is today ing even the men engaged in the Dorchester. All branches are active in prices showing an advancing tendency. Plate glass consumption is far in excess of production.

HUM OF TRADE
PERVADES THE SOUTH
 (BY J. LINING)
ST. LOUIS, October 27.—With the public buying power steadied, business is becoming aggressive and the hum of trade today prevades the entire South and West.

There has been a general increase of about 30 per cent. in cash transactions in both cities and rural communities over those of a month ago. Wholesalers have stocked up with large quantities of merchandise in anticipation of re-stocking of retailers and the Christmas rush and report heavy orders for goods. Orders for spring deliveries of stable necessities and household goods are numerous.

Christmas orders are much larger than last year. They cover a great diversity of articles and include a higher price range. The vigorous demand for wearing apparel is a feature of the trade.

STRONG WHOLESALE
MARKET IN SOUTH
 (BY W. W. THOMAS)
ATLANTA, October 27.—Strong wholesale markets are a feature of the business situation in the South today.

Read salesman are in the midst of the best selling period they have experienced this year and visiting retailers are buying liberally here. The demand for shoes is especially heavy and dry goods sales this week are above those of the early part of October. Retail trade is good in all lines.

One of the largest job distributors in the South states today his books showed more orders booked now than they did a month later in 1921.

Unless there is an unexpected slump, October will break all monthly building records in Atlanta for all time.

CRAMP SHIPYARD RUSY
PHILADELPHIA, October 27.—The Cramp Shipyard has more ships under way on the water in process of completion than any yard along the Delaware. All the outstanding notes of the Cramp Corporation have been retired and the corporation will soon go back to the management of the shareholders upon cancellation of the voting trust certificates. The chance is likely to give the American Ship and Commerce Corporation a decided voice in the control of the company.

EXECUTE MANY BUILDING PERMITS IN SEATTLE
SEATTLE, October 27.—Building permits in Seattle for the year of 1922 are expected to be the largest in the history of the city, with the exception of the boom years of 1919 and 1920. To date the value of building permits issued this year amounts to over $12,750,000. It is expected by the close of the year the aggregate value of buildings authorized will run about $17,000,000.

GRAIN
PORTLAND, Ore., October 27.—Wheat growers in Washington, Oregon and Idaho have been unusually prompt in disposing of their export grade wheat this season. A year ago there was but little selling until a late date owing to the expectation of higher prices.
